MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence
Deputy Director for Intelligence
Director of Security

FROM: Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT: Sources and Methods Speech

1. My talk with the Armed Forces Policy Council today was received with considerable interest and concern. Cap tasked them to make recommendations to him for follow-up actions to be taken in DoD. [redacted] 25X1

2. There were a few questions on which I would like some work done:

a. What do other countries do to deal with the problems which I laid out? [redacted] 25X1

[redacted]

b. There were considerable questions about our dissemination practices. Do all the people who receive the NID really need it? Even though it is more costly, should we not consider doing more briefing in oral form and less in written form? One thought which came to me is whether we shouldn't specialize the NID a little more--why do diplomatic and economic officials need to receive information about Soviet weapons tests? Should we consider developing a few categories of separate packages and thereby reduce the number of people who receive the full cross-section of information which the NID makes available?

c. The ease of xeroxing was a matter of particular concern.

[redacted] 25X1

3. One cogent comment which Bob Barrows made is the way the military advertises cases of drug abuse to deter others and the way the government keeps quiet about the "white collar crime" of mishandling intelligence. Considerable outrage was expressed about this.
